Last Day of School: Sunday starts with breakfast until 11 am Networking Day.

We recommend that you give yourself that day to Network, and to be open that week to meet with the new great worldwide contacts you would have made at the School. The contacts, associates, and friends you would have made will be outstanding and memorable. Past graduates have always regretted it when they rushed back home. If you cannot stay that extra day, we recommend that you book a flight after 4 pm that day so you give yourself plenty of time to Network on that last day.

Last evening (Saturday) ends with celebration party until late evening. Sunday is an optional day of briefings for the participants. Breakfast is provided as a completion meal with class members and instructors meeting and lingering over final farewells as this week that will change their lives forever draws to a close. Some participants will stay all day to network and attend breakout sessions with some of the instructors who are still in the premises, and many schedule a final debriefing with DC.
