

A Web-Made Millionaire

Yanik Silver Taps into the Secrets of Online Success
By Stephanie Dube

When Yanik Silver was only two, he and his family moved to the United States from Russia. With only $256 and little knowledge of the English language, Silver's father built a multimillion-dollar business.

His hard work and independent spirit were not lost on his son. While growing up, Silver worked for his dad's medical sales business and learned strong business ethics and an entrepreneur's spirit.

Silver eventually launched his own business — a unique take on Internet sales utilizing the most important commodity of all: information. Silver has built a multi-million-dollar Internet business himself, marketing everything from e-books to how-to packages to self-improvement courses.

Today, Silver's Internet business allows him, his wife and young child to enjoy life at an unhurried and pleasant pace. But regardless of his success, Silver has never forgotten the basic values he learned as he followed in his father's footsteps.

His business isn't just about himself. "I'm a firm believer in helping others," he says. "I want to always give people something that has a value 10 to a hundred times what they pay me."

Yanik Silver has agreed to share his Internet business tips with $1,000,000aire Blueprints. His insight on Web site marketing, and the numerous opportunities he sees in the online community, will be priceless to readers looking for a unique way to launch their own business.